

GOT HER $40,000 BY "MYSTIC CUBE," WOMAN OF 70 SAYS

Mrs. Jackson Hypnotized Into Marrying Husband of Ann
O'Delia Diss Debar.

LANDED WITH 15 CENTS.

Benefactress Didn't Know He Had a Scotland Yard Record.

On the strength of records sent here from Scotland Yard and her own testimony that he was an "immortal" and had persuaded her that if she did not marry him she would be destroyed, Mrs. Harriet Cadman Jackson, widow, seventy years old, once wealthy, succeeded to-day in having Supreme Court Justice Giegerich annul her marriage to Frank Dutton Wright, alias Francis Wright, husband of Ann O'Delia Diss Debar, who succeeded many years ago in getting away with the fortune of Ludlow H. Marsh, a wealthy lawyer of this city.

In a low feeble voice the aged woman related how Jackson met her in November, 1913, imbued her with the propaganda of the Theocratic Unity and Purity League, hypnotized her and after getting more than $40,000 from her by means of a "mystic cube" which he said the immortals had given him, married her. Then he disappeared.

"I was sixty-nine when I married him," Mrs. Jackson said, "and only the day after our marriage he began to hypnotize me. He rubbed my forehead and gave me treatment that he said was immortal. I became subject to his will absolutely and gave him large sums of money. I knew him only a month before I married him, and he talked constantly of the New Light religion in which he was deeply interested. 'I am one of the immortals,' he told me, 'and unless you marry me you will be destroyed. I was susceptible to his influence.'"

"Did you know anything of his prison record when you married him?" asked Justice Giegerich. "Nothing at all," the witness replied. Her attorney then handed her copies of Scotland Yard records, to which were attached Jackson's thumb prints and her "Rogues' Gallery" photographs.

"That is the same man I married, but I didn't know he had served fifteen years in Dartmoor Prison when I married him," said Mrs. Jackson. "This record shows," said Attorney John MacGregor, counsel for Mrs. Jackson, "that this lady's husband served fifteen years for a heinous crime. He had organized, with a woman known to the detectives of Scotland Yard as 'The Swan,' the Theocratic Unity and Purity League. To the rooms of this organization young girls were enticed and wronged, and both he and 'The Swan' were sent to jail."

Mrs. Jackson said that when her husband arrived in this country in 1913 he had only fifteen cents in his pockets and she took pity on him. He began to spruce up on money she furnished him until he replaced his shabby clothes with costly garments. The he succeeded in getting her to sign away all her property rights to him, she said, and when she had done this he replaced her with a property into cash he disappeared.

Where Ann O'Delia Diss Debar is now living even Jackson does not apparently know. Attorney MacGregor produced in court a postal card from Jackson in which he asked for information concerning the whereabouts of Diss Debar. The last heard of her was when she got a ticket of leave from England and set sail for this country.

Jackson married Diss Debar in New Orleans in 1907. Previous to that she met Marsh, the millionaire lawyer, and by means of fake spiritualistic photographs and fake messages from his dead wife induced him to devote over to her a handsome home in Madison avenue and other property worth $50,000. She served six months on Blackwell's Island for this.

Takes Tube to Hotel and Kills Himself.

A man who registered as Robert Armstrong at a hotel run by Robert Lindberg at No. 402 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, last night, was found undressed on the bed with a tube in his mouth connected with an open gas jet. The man was about thirty-five years old and had brought the tube with him in order to commit suicide. There was nothing to identify him.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power are a result of doing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians in that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

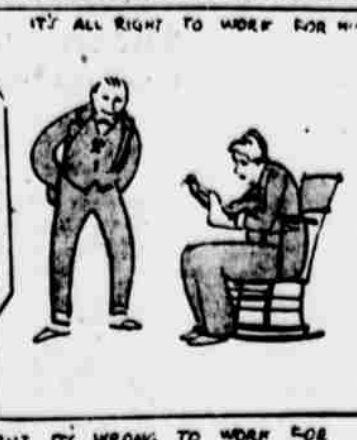

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the drug should not be given to a child who is ill, unless the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to do so without his sanction.

Cocaine contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Genuine Cocaine always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Founder of Barnard Stands Up for Men; Woman's Job Is in the Home, She Says

ANNIE NATHAN MEYER

IT'S ALL RIGHT TO WORK FOR HIM BUT IT'S WRONG TO WORK FOR SOME OTHER MAN

If Wife Wants a "Career" Let Her Have It—Making
Beds and Minding Baby—But Give Her Her
Salary, for She Earns It, Advises Mrs.
Meyer, New Playwright.

By Marguerite Moores Marshall.

"You rob your husband of the very warp and woof of his manhood. You take from him the meaning of Life itself, rob him of fatherhood, of all he has a right to expect. You would have him less than the lowest of animals—less than the tiny male bird guarding the mother bird and her eggs. You steal from him a man's most precious right—the right of the male to provide for his female."

That is the charge leveled against the self-supporting wife by Mrs. Annie Nathan Meyer in her new play "The Spur," which has just been given a special performance for the benefit of the Belgian Relief Fund. Mrs. Meyer is the founder of Barnard College and the author of a number of brilliant dramatic dissections of the modern woman.

"I asked myself what feminism was going to do to men," she declared, "vigorously, when I sought the reason for her opposition to the wage-earning wife. 'Really, it seems to me that the men have the right to some consideration. I hear a great deal about what their economic independence will do for wives. What's it going to do for the husbands?'"

MAN NEEDS MORE THAN VAULTING AMBITION. Then it became clear that Mrs. Meyer doesn't believe the modern man to be another Machbeth, needing "no spur to prick the sides of his intent but only vaulting ambition." She maintains, on the contrary, that "some of the finest men in the world do their best only if spurred on by their woman."

"The most sacred thing in the world to a man is the protection he can give his women," she told me. "What helps him to endure the year-in-and-year-out grind downtown is the remembrance that uptown there's the little apartment with his wife in a rocking chair and their children around her."

"They call the home woman, the dependent woman, 'useless.' Why, the only useless thing on God's earth is what lives for itself. Useless! Have you never seen some great, tall tree in summer, with its leaves eaten by caterpillars, its bare, stark branches standing stiff and stark against the sky, a tragic skeleton? Those little green leaves quivering in the breeze that you thought merely decorative were necessary—destroy them and you destroy the tree, root and branch. Women are to men like the leaves of a tree. They feed them with sunlight, and though they seem mere ornament they nourish the great strong roots deep down in the earth."

WOMAN'S PLEA FOR FATHERHOOD'S RIGHTS.

"Then there's another thing forgotten by those who say that a woman can combine marriage and a business career. Every now and then some one tells me of such a 'very successful' instance of this sort. 'Any children?' I ask. The almost invariable reply is 'No.' Now, the normal procedure for the normal, average husband and wife is to have children.

of the family funds. That arrangement should dispose once and for all of any hated feeling of dependence.

"Women are physically adapted to the care of a home. They are not adapted to office work, which is another reason why they should drop it as soon as possible, and certainly after their marriage. Till they've had years of it they don't know what business does to a woman. It's getting up in the dark, hanging to a strap in the subway, shivering in winter, burning in summer, saving on your stomach to feed your vanity, longing for pleasure you don't dare take, seeing an enemy in every man's face. A woman is not manufactured to stand the strain."

"So you see there are other arguments than blind masculine prejudice against the economic independence of the married woman. And the prejudice itself is still deeply rooted." Then Mrs. Meyer read me her own hero's outburst against the women who insist on "going out into the world," of whom the hero's wife was one:

"Women! Is it women you call yourselves?" he storms. "By what right? You've long hair and you wear skirts, but you're not women! There's a lot of talk in you, and saying what you won't do, and what you're going to do, but when you get up against something real, like marrying or mothering, you're not there—you're not there—there's nothing to you. It's time someone told you sexless women the truth. You mean nothing—there's no place for you anywhere. You won't be daughters, you won't be wives, you won't be mothers, and you can't be men! We can't see the real women for the dust you raise!"

Well, if any man feels that way I suppose that is the way he feels.

TWO MORE SHIPS WITH AMERICAN CARGOES SEIZED

Regina Italia and San Giovanni, Italian Steamers, Held by British.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The seizure at Gibraltar by British authorities of two Italian vessels, the San Giovanni and the Regina Italia, carrying cargoes of American copper, was reported to the State Department to-day.

The report of the seizures was received from four copper companies in New York, shippers of the cargoes held. They requested the State Department to make protests to Great Britain against confiscation.

The State Department cabled the American Consul at Gibraltar for an explanation of the detention of the vessels. In this connection a report was also awaited from the Consul regarding the seizure of the Red Star liner Kronland there yesterday.

The San Giovanni and the Regina Italia sailed from New York and were on their way to Italian ports. It is also understood here that British warships held up the Norwegian steamer Prosper III, from New York for Copenhagen and took her to a port in North Scotland.

"We ought to make all of the basic dyestuffs, for lack of which the dye industry in this community is threatened with ruin. We are too rich; too many of us have so much money we wouldn't know what to do with more if we had it. That's

BERLIN TO ARREST BRITISH IN REPRISAL FOR ACTION AGAINST LONDON GERMANS

LONDON, Oct. 29 (United Press).—Having learned that severe restrictions are imposed upon Germans in England, the Berlin authorities have instituted reprisals, and a clean sweep of the city for Englishmen, with hundreds of arrests, is imminent, according to a Evening News despatch from The Hague.

The unrestricted visiting of English prisoners at the Italian race track has been stopped, it is declared. The chaplain of the British will not be permitted to hold services until he is able to prove that Germans held in England have religious advisers with them. The soldiers imprisoned at the Italian race track are sleeping on straw beds in the stables, the News despatch declares. All travelers coming by way of Holland are closely scrutinized by the German authorities.

"There's a Reason"

why more and more coffee
drinkers quit coffee and use—

POSTUM

Once convinced that coffee-drinking is actually harmful to health, few parents would give coffee to their children, or drink it themselves.

What proof more convincing than the unnatural aches and pains that many coffee-drinkers suffer?

What proof more conclusive than the scores of expert medical and scientific opinions against coffee?

Brain, Stomach, Heart, Liver and Kidneys are the first organs to be affected. Sometimes it shows in head-ache; often in nervousness, indigestion or heart disturbance; frequently in biliousness or disturbed vision.

If you are in doubt, try this test—
Stop coffee ten days and use POSTUM

This pure food-drink made of prime wheat and a small per cent. of wholesome molasses, has a rich, Java-like flavor and is absolutely pure and free from the coffee-drug, caffeine, or any other harmful ingredient.

Postum comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—needs no boiling. A teaspoonful of the soluble powder stirred in a cup of hot water makes a delightful beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

Grocers everywhere sell both kinds, and the cost per cup is about the same.
